PIFTY DOLLARS REWARD.—Ran away from the subscriber living in Middlesex county, on the 6th of the present month a begro man named Charles. Charles is a very likely, bright matter feltow, with very light blue eyes, about twenty-six years old, five feet six or eight inches high, and well proportioned. He had on, when he left, a brown cloth close coat, blue cassinet partalosos, and a white fir hat. He left without any provocation whatever, and is no doubt endeavoring to get to a free State. He is a very smart, sensible fellow, and is well calculated to pass unmolested. I will give the above reward for the apprehension and felivery of him to me, or secured in any jail so that I can get him $20m. Any information concerning him will be thankfully releved. My address, is Churchville, Middlesex County, Virginia. WM. K. PACE. Buckingham, Sept. 24, 1840.

This delegation of power able" to the Exchange Committee, was never expressly and formally renewed under the new charter, unless it be considered as included, under a general resolution of the new Board adopting "The Bye-Laws, Rules and Regulations" of the former Bank. By the statement of the condition of the Bank upon the second of March, 1835, the whole amount of loans upon Bank stock, and other than personal security, was $4,797,-936 25 cents, while that by that of March 3, 1836, these loans had increased to the sum of 20,446,367 dollars, 88 cents. Under such circumstances, the active means of the Bank were comparatively small, to pay the immediate demand of the State for the Bonus, to settle with the Government of the United States for its stock, and to meet its circulation of 20,114,227 dollars, 56 cents, which, contrary to the anticipation, expressed at the period of its recharter, soon began to be rapidly presented for redemption. The Bank was, of necessity, driven into the market as borrowers, and very soon the first step was taken to obtain loans abroad, by sending the Cashier to Europe for that purpose. Two loans were accordingly negotiated by him; one in England, of £1,000,000 sterling; and another in France, of 12,500,000 france, on favorable terms.
